FUTURA BOLD? Is the title of the 2013 Architecture Festival in Luxembourg. Consisting out of a series of different events, ranging from a symposium and talks over co-design workshops to an exhibition and publication, it aims at pro-actively speculating on the territory's spatial future.

FUTURA BOLD? seeks out to generate a pro-active approach and attitude of the production of territory, space and architecture :

articulated under - and communicated through - the shape of concrete projects and proposals, these strategies and speculations were presented and submitted to government officials, policy makers and the public via an exhibition, publication and talks, in order to broaden the scope of discussions and widen the range of architectural and territorial realities and possibilities.
